C4282 CHATO’S LAND (USA, 1972)

(Other titles: Collines de la terreur)

Credits: director, Michael Winner; writer, Gerald Wilson.
Cast: Charles Bronson, Jack Palance, Richard Basehart, James Whitmore.

Summary: Western film set in the 1870s American Southwest. Chato (Bronson), a half-breed Apache, kills a white sheriff in self-defense and then finds himself on the run from a posse determined to see him hang. Led by an ex-Civil War officer (Palance), the posse considers the chase great sport, until they realize that Chato has led them deep into Apache country. The hunters become the hunted. One of five western films produced during the Vietnam war which have been described as Vietnam war allegories.

[Chato’s land] CinemaTV today n. 9985 (Jun 17, 1972), p. 22.
[Reissued as Bronson, 1983]
[Reissued, London : Hale, 1978]