Luan began his work for North Vietnam when he returned to Vinh Long parish to see his foster father, Bishop Ngo Dinh Thuc, brother of Pres. Ngo Dinh Diem. He used this connection to infiltrate the government but was suspected by Ngo Dinh Nhu, another of the President’s brothers. Luan managed to avoid traps set for him by Nhu, organized religious opposition to the Diem regime, and eliminated a double agent sent out by Nhu to discover his true allegiance.
