Summary: Gangster film set in the contemporary US south and Quebec. In a backwater southern town, rising gangster Clifton Santier (Greene) goes on a killing spree against his rivals. The town's alcoholic lawman (and Vietnam vet), Pershing Quinn (Paré), recognizes Santier as his missing-in-action military buddy, Bosco, who turned renegade during a peacekeeping mission in Africa years earlier. The burned-out Quinn pulls himself together and tracks Santier to Montreal where several attempts on his life fail to dampen Quinn's resolve to arrest the elusive Santier.
