Credits: director, Glenn Jordan; writer, Gore Vidal; novel, Lucian K. Truscott IV.
Summary: Detective/mystery television film set at West Point in the 1960s. Story about the hushed up murder of a homosexual cadet at West Point. When Commandant Hedges (Holbrook), a gung-ho Vietnam veteran, learns how Cadet Hand died, he destroys the autopsy report, ostensibly to protect the Academy's name, but really with an eye on promotion to Superintendent. However, Cadet Ry Slaight (Baldwin), who knew Hand well, embarks on a private investigation of the death despite all Hedges and 'the system' can do to stop him.

Margulies, Lee. “Weekend TV: Justice stands accused in 2 dramas” Los Angeles times (Mar 8, 1986), Calendar, p. 11.
Terry, Clifford. “‘Dress gray’ doesn’t quite fit, but has some appeal” Chicago tribune (Mar 7, 1986), Tempo, p. 5.