H6800 HOUSE (USA, 1985)

Credits: director, Steve Miner; writer, Etan Wiley; story, Fred Dekker.
Summary: Horror/comedy set in the contemporary U.S. Author Roger Cobb (Katt), long overdue for a new horror novel, begins work instead on a book based on his experiences in Vietnam. In part, the new project is a way of purging himself of the horrors that he experienced while there. But what begins as an ambitious fiction experiment soon deteriorates into a seething and terrifying reality. Cast into a sinister otherworld, looking into the void of uncertain death, in the darkness, Roger grapples with unseen forces, and the vengeful ghost of a buddy he left behind in Vietnam, in order to save his sanity and rescue his only son.
