Summary: War melodrama set in Vietnam over a thirty year period from 1945-75. Follows the travails of a Vietnamese woman thru this period of turmoil. Gai grew up in a poor village but was a talented singer. In the famine year of 1945 she was forced into marriage to the stupid and ugly son of a rich family. In a raid by French troops, Gai was raped and eventually drifted to Hanoi where she gave birth to a Eurasian son. After the liberation of 1954, her son was taken to Saigon by his French foster father leaving Gai behind. Gai moved to Saigon searching for her son. There she was bought and sold, bearing a son for a Viet Cong leader and a daughter with an American father. After the liberation of 1975, she hopes she can live in peace with her daughter, but the child is kidnapped and Gai dies in loneliness.
