Summary: Science fiction series set in an indeterminate future when Earth has established colonies in distant star systems. The colonization effort has led to a desperate war against an enigmatic alien race. In Hollywood representations of soldiers since the Vietnam War, the U.S. has been refighting the war on a personal level and avoiding the real issues arising from the war. In the character of Cmdr. Tyrus Cassius ‘T.C.’ McQueen (Morrison) in this series, Hollywood transcends the ideological problems that haunt depictions of military commanders in the post-Vietnam era.
