Summary: Detective/mystery film set in contemporary New York City. Best-selling mystery writer Dianna Taylor (Harris) and her New York publishing crowd delight in playing “The Game,” an intellectual charade in which they compete to see who can design the perfect murder. Unsuspecting crime-writer Michael Moore (Shackelford) becomes their latest victim, ensnared not only in Dianna’s clever games, but her loving embrace as well. But fun and mind games take a lethal turn when Dianna and Michael’s wealthy publisher is discovered dead - and both authors find themselves as suspects. The police consider Moore a likely suspect because of his background as a Special Forces sniper in Vietnam.
