S8667  SUPPOSE THEY GAVE A WAR AND NOBODY CAME  (USA, 1970)

Credits: director, Hy Averback ; writers, Don McGuire, Hal Captain.

Cast: Tony Curtis, Brian Keith, Ernest Borgnine, Suzanne Pleshette, Don Ameche.

Summary: Comedy film set in the contemporary American South. Three Vietnam veterans and their fellow soldiers at a remote missile base have trouble getting along with the police and rednecks in the neighboring town. The screenplay is well written, making subtle points about the Vietnam War, racism, and sexism without being dogmatic.

Francis, John. [Suppose they gave a war and nobody came] Films and filming 17/6 (Mar 1971), p. 57.

Lanning, Michael Lee. Vietnam at the movies [GB] (p. 323-4)

“Suppose they gave a war and nobody came” American Film Institute catalog (Entry F6.4786)

