Credits: director, Mel Damski; writer, Scobie Richardson; novel (Preacher) Ted Thackery, Jr.

Cast: Powers Boothe, Cindy Pickett, Terry O'Quinn, Rene Auberjonois.

Summary: Detective/mystery film set in contemporary Texas. Near a Tex-Mex border town, a helicopter crash claims the life of its Vietnam veteran pilot. Jake (Auberjonois), the town's priest, suspects foul play and summons the "Preacher" (Boothe) to investigate. "Preacher" is a friend of Jake's from his seminary days, but instead of entering the clergy, he joined the Special Forces and went to Vietnam. His investigation soon makes him the target of everyone from the town's young hoodlums to the sadistic deputy sheriff. But with the help of the dead pilot's sister (Pickett), and an old computer hacker (Walsh), he begins to reveal the sordid mystery.
