Y8320 YUE QING (HONG KONG, 1991)

(Other titles: Roar of the Vietnamese)

Credits: director, Cheng Wing Chiu ; writer, unknown.

Cast: Sibelle Hu, Waise Lee.

Summary: Gangster film set in contemporary Hong Kong. A group of four Vietnamese refugees are smuggled out of a Hong Kong refugee camp by Officer Mak, a corrupt HK policeman. They are taken to a dormitory to become part of the “Viet Gang,” carrying out criminal missions for the Hong Kong triads under the control of a Mr. Ho. They are supervised by two Vietnamese intermediaries, Tran Sen (Lee) and his girlfriend Miss Yuen (Hu). Their story is related by Miss Yuen during a subsequent police interrogation. The “Viet Gang” carries out arson and murder for Mr. Ho on the promise that they will eventually be smuggled into the U.S. In fact, those that are taken away for a boat to the U.S. are actually murdered and dumped in the ocean. When Miss Yuen, discovers this betrayal, she gets Tran Sen to promise he will get the rest to the U.S. Tran Sen orders the group on one last mission to attack Mr. Ho’s house, but he intends to betray them all to enhance his standing with Ho. In the final confrontation, all the “Viet Gang” but one are killed. Tran Sen is shot by Miss Yuen.

c2005 J.K.M. Enterprises