Other Events of Note Held During La Salle Heritage Week

• “Charles Willson Peale and His Family at Belfield”: An exhibition, with loans from Philadelphia collections of works by Charles Willson Peale and the most prominent artists in his family as well as a rare documents relating to the artist’s Belfield property, commemorates both the 200th year of the famous American painter’s arrival at Belfield and the 25th anniversary of the University’s purchase of the artist’s former estate, now a national historic landmark. The exhibition is to be shown from March 1 to April 30, 2010. Contact the La Salle University Art Museum at www.lasalle.edu/artmuseum or 215.951.1221 for more details.

• The Diplomat-in-Residence Program will present Hanan Ashrawi, Ph.D., a noted Palestinian legislator, activist, and scholar, who will speak on her lifelong work for Palestinian national rights. This program is supported by the Office of the Provost and the Theodore Morrow Memorial Fund. See the mylasalle portal for further details.

• CampusMovieFest: Students who wish to create a five-minute film on a topic of their choosing and compete for prizes must sign up online at www.campusmoviefest.com after Jan. 31, 2010. The filmmaking and instruction will take place between Tuesday, March 16, and Monday, March 22. Screening and judging of films and the awards ceremony will be on the evening of March 26 in the Dan Rodden Theatre. For more information, contact Brother Gerry Molyneaux, F.S.C., at molyneau@lasalle.edu.

• Nominations for the Lindback Award for Distinguished Teaching will be collected. The award gives students an opportunity to recognize excellence in teaching among members of the full-time faculty. For further information, see www.lasalle.edu/lindback, the mylasalle portal, or the Collegian.
