

TABA Courses

Collaborative, community-engaged courses that explore a single theme through multiple disciplinary lenses.

TABA faculty and students come together for shared lectures, activities, and community-based projects.

TABA courses are grounded in the Lasallian Commitment of Active Responsibility and guided by our new institutional learning outcomes.

TABA courses co-create an environment characterized by intellectual solidarity and attentive respect for difference, a willingness to reconsider one's own position in light of another's experience or insight, a commitment to growing together as a learning community, and a dedication to working for the common good.

Students will engage in dialogue with community partners, community-based research, service-learning, and other shared experiences.
