Disability and Theatre: How the Arts Can Promote Economic and Social Justice

Although the numbers vary depending upon which source you use, it is generally estimated that about 43,000,000 Americans are disabled, or roughly 17% of the total population. Some have called the disabled America's largest minority group. Over the last 20-30 years, disabled Americans have banded together in a broad movement aimed at securing economic and social justice for their members, a movement that has profoundly affected the role of the arts in America. In this café, we will explore the role of theatre in particular in promoting justice for the disabled and raise questions about the responsibilities of theatre and the arts in providing opportunities for disabled professionals.

Last Explorer Café of the semester. Don’t miss out. All are welcome.

Approval of Minutes
The Minutes of the meeting of October 14, 2010 were approved by a vote of 12-0-2.

Faculty Senate Election Process
Maggie McGuinness presented a proposal to keep the current Senate composition of 21 Senators; seven elected each year: two Professors; two Associate Professors; two Assistant Professors and one At Large but change the election process to ensure representation of faculty from the School of Business and the School of Nursing and Health Sciences. Discussion involved adopting a process that would allow for at least one representative from each of the Schools. Maggie will summarize the recommendations and present changes for consideration at the next meeting.

Mediation and Grievance Policy Discussion
Discussion concerned forming an ad hoc working group to evaluate the current Grievance Policy in the Handbook. Suggestions included adding an additional member to the existing Mediation Committee and having this group assume the charge. A candidate was suggested who has membership on the Grievance Committee.

Tenure and Promotion Standards Discussion.
The Senate Executive Committee reported that they had met with the Provost to discuss issues related to the Tenure and Promotion procedures. A discussion followed that involved questions about current practices related to the procedures outlined in the Handbook. The discussion resulted in a recommendation as follows:

By Senate resolution, we encourage the Tenure and Promotion Committee to carefully follow procedures as laid out in the Handbook. This recommendation was approved by a vote of 15-0-0

The meeting was adjourned at 1:50 p.m.

Respectfully Submitted,
Mary Ellen A. McMonigle, Secretary
