TEN YEARS AFTER 9/11: AMERICA’S WAR ON TERRORISM

September 15, 2011 • 12:30–2 p.m. • Dunleavy Room, La Salle Union

Co-sponsored with the Lasallian Forum for Politics and Policy

Peter Mandaville, Ph.D., joined the U.S. Department of State’s Policy Planning staff in January 2011. His portfolio covers political Islam, Muslim world engagement, and the international relations of emerging powers. A Franklin Fellow, he is a professor of government and Islamic studies at George Mason University, where he was Founding Director of the Center for Global Studies. He has authored two books, Global Political Islam (2007) and Transnational Muslim Politics: Reimagining the Umma (2001).

Clark McCauley, Ph.D., is a social psychologist. He has research interests in social cognition, individual differences, and health psychology. His current research topics include attraction to horror movies, individual differences in sensitivity to disgust, and the psychology of identification. McCauley serves as co-Director of the Solomon Asch Center for the Study of Ethnopolitical Conflict at the University of Pennsylvania. He is also a member of the American Psychological Association Task Force on Reaction to Terrorism. He earned his bachelor’s degree from Providence College and his Ph.D. from the University of Pennsylvania.

Michael Scheuer, Ph.D., is a more than 20-year CIA veteran. From 1996 to 1998, he served as the Chief of the bin Laden unit (aka Alec Station), the Osama bin Laden tracking unit at the Counterterrorism Center. He then worked as Special Adviser to the Chief of the bin Laden unit from September 2001 to November 2004. He resigned from the CIA in 2004. He is currently an adjunct professor at Georgetown University’s Center for Peace and Security Studies.
