Subject: Human Capital Development Program Aligns with SHRM

La Salle University is pleased to announce that the Society for Human Resource Management (SHRM) has acknowledged that its Master of Science in Human Capital Development is fully aligned with SHRM’s HR Curriculum Guidebook and Templates. Throughout the world, only 213 educational institutions have been acknowledged by SHRM as being in alignment with its suggested guides and templates. The HR Curriculum Guidebook and Templates were developed by SHRM to define the minimum HR content areas that should be studied at the undergraduate and graduate levels. They are part of SHRM’s Academic Initiative, revalidated in 2010, to help the Society define HR education standards taught in universities.

The fully online Master of Science in Human Capital Development program began in the fall of 2011 with robust enrollment. The program’s curriculum is designed for working professionals who are expected to lead their organizations’ workforce with strategic thinking that integrates the people, mission, goals, and objectives of the organizations. Students in the program learn to develop, implement, and measure strategic human capital plans for their organizations.

The program’s two-year, multidisciplinary curriculum draws courses from psychology, management, negotiation theory, and instructional technology in addition to specifically developed courses to offer students a well-balanced blend of theory and practice. Students are able to focus on a particular aspect of human capital development in fields such as education, health care, finance, global corporations, not-for-profit, and government. Students also have the option of surveying different human capital development initiatives throughout the world.

Program Director Stanley Braverman, Esq., MBA. says, “The Human Capital Development program differs from most human resource master’s-level programs in that it focuses on human capital strategic decision-making rather than on traditional human resource transactional management.”
