To Whom It May Concern,

1st Paragraph – What happened?

Entered response here:

Example: My mother fell ill with stage 3 breast cancer during the January of 2018. My mother needed assistance getting to and from doctor appointments, receiving chemotherapy, and general day-to-day needs. While I was able to maintain my attendance in each class, I was unable to successfully complete my homework and set aside adequate time to study.

2nd Paragraph – How will this change?

Enter response here:

Example: Fortunately, I have a great academic advisor, Dr. Cook, who has helped me create an execution plan for the upcoming semester. We scheduled classes for Monday-Thursday, so I can spend Friday-Sunday at home taking care of my mom. We also scheduled only afternoon classes on Monday, so I can spend a full three nights at home. We will splurge to have a nurse take care of my mom during the week, which will allow me to de-stress, and have time for homework and studying. I will be spending Tuesday and Thursday evenings in the student center, and Mondays in the library with a new study group I just joined. I also cleared out the basement in my house to create a quiet study space at home as well.

3rd Paragraph – Documentation

Enter response here and attach documentation:

Example: Please find attached the following documents:

- Doctor's note confirming my mother's illness
- Copy of the execution plan I created with my advisor, Dr. Cook
- Statement from the Student Center

Please let me know if I need to provide other documents or information.

I appreciate the consideration.
